Hope High School Boys Directed in Concert by Mrs. John Wellborn

FINANCE PLANS HIT

Members Criticize Washington Program on Railroads Banks and Labor

The Boys Glee club of Hope High School entertained Hope Rotary club with a series of excellent selections Friday noon at luncheon in Hotel Barlow.

Mrs. John Wellborn, director, presented the singers in quartet and ensemble numbers much to the delight of the Rotarians. The director explained that the high school was especially grateful to Hope's civic clubs for their participation in the recent "Stunt Night" program given as a benefit by the high school organizations.

The regular Rotary program Friday was presented by Alex. H. Washburn and E. F. McFadden, being a discussion of national topics. Mr. Washburn attacked certain phases of the economic reconstruction program attempted by the federal government.

Railroad Aid
The government has loaned the Missouri Pacific Railroad company 17 million dollars, he said, "and a well-informed local citizen observed to me Thursday that the railroad's first act was to cut off a $2,000-a-month pay roll in Hope, thereby taking away $24,000 a year from this community probably as our share of the annual interest burden represented by the government's 17-million-dollar loan."

"This is hardly what you would call progress toward prosperity. We have been in the deflation period long enough now to obtain an accurate perspective of these so-called relief measures. And the American people are suddenly realizing that their gravest mistake was supposing for one minute that economic aid could come out of our political capitals—the very creatures that we ourselves created. Prosperity begins with us and goes hence—only false prophets tell us that prosperity is created in Washington and Little Rock and is delivered to us. We need courage and confidence to do our own tasks, and the resolution to avoid looking elsewhere for help that may be promised but is impossible to delivery."

McFadden on Roosevelt
Mr. McFadden reviewed a radio address given by Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York Thursday night. Governor Roosevelt, Mr. McFadden said, pointed out that the administration at Washington was "attempting to begin the work of reconstruction at the top instead of the bottom. It is pouring millions into the head of the business organization trusting that a few dollars will trickle out at the base."

"Governor Roosevelt was not entirely original in this observation, however. Back in 1896 William Jennings Bryan laid the Republican platform alongside the Democratic platform, and showed that where the Republican quoted 'Capital and Labor' the Democrats said 'Labor and Capital.' Governor Roosevelt in his address Thursday night reiterated the traditional stand of the Democratic party for labor and the common people."

"Back in the era when America was founded," continued Mr. McFadden, "Thomas Jefferson advocated a theory of democratic rule which was incorporated in what then was the most radical notion ever conceived—our United States. Today that nation is facing a crisis, a test of not whether the common people can rule themselves, but whether they are willing to do so."

President C. C. Spragens named Terrill Cornelius, Dr. W. R. Anderson and George Ware as a nominating committee to select officers for the new Rotary year beginning July 1. Mr. Cornelius, George W. Robinson and Nick Jewell will manage Hope's attendance at the annual district conference of Arkansas Rotary at Hot Springs May 19.

Veterans Visit Capital With Truck Load of Petitions Friday

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Over a thousand veterans marched to the capital Friday with a truck load of petitions, urging a cash payment of the soldiers' bonus and were promised by a majority of the spokesmen of the house and senate that their plea would receive consideration.

Veterans of foreign wars were sponsors of the demonstration and said that the petitions contained close to two and a half million signatures.

Tragedies End Lives of Co-Eds

Two pretty college co-eds died under tragic circumstances within a few days.

Miss Jackie Ruth Youngblood, 20, in top picture, student at Magnolia A. and M. college, died under a fast moving passenger train at El Dorado less than two weeks ago.

Miss Evelyn Campbell, 22, shown below, a medical student at Stanford University, shot and killed herself in the apartment of James A. Carey, a fellow medical student, following an alleged campus romance.

Yancy Youth Has Peculiar Illness

John Dillard Has Malady Which Puzzles Specialists

NASHVILLE, Ark.—John William Dillard, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dillard of Yancy, a student in the Nashville school, has developed a very strange malady which has so far puzzled the doctors, and he is now in a hospital at Hope for observation and treatment, following examination and X-rays by specialists at Hope and Texarkana.

The youth is apparently well while he is awake, but when he sleeps, he fights himself. He has bruised himself badly in this way, and on a few occasions it required several persons to hold him to prevent him doing himself bodily harm.

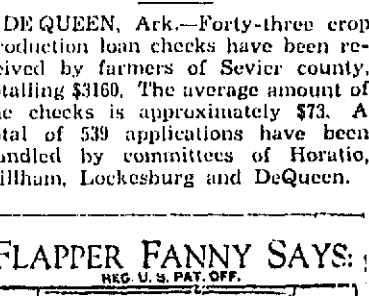

Some of the specialists who have examined the youth have pronounced the malady a type of sleeping sickness.

Wind and Electrical Storm Strikes in Section Near Lepanto

HOME IS DEMOLISHED

Family Reunion Broken Up as Storm Strikes Sawn McGraw Home

LEPANTO—(AP)—Two brothers are dead and seven other persons were injured Friday as the result of an electrical and wind storm which struck near here late Thursday.

Enoch Ferguson, 22, and Earl Ferguson, 29, were killed when struck by lightning while they were at work on a plantation near their home.

John and Henry Ferrell, youthful brothers, were seriously injured when struck by a bolt of lightning.

A family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sawn McGraw was broken up by a wind storm which demolished their home, injuring five occupants.

Fifteen other members of the McGraw family escaped unhurt, while Mrs. McGraw suffered head injuries, her daughters, Mrs. Ethel Oliver, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Smith's two small children were injured seriously.

Hobo Not Guilty of Killing Co-Ed

Irving Eddington Quickly Freed by Jury in El Dorado Court

EL DORADO—A verdict of "not guilty" by a jury that required only 20 minutes for its decision late Thursday freed Irving Eddington, feeble-minded tramp, who had signed a confession that he attacked and killed Miss Jackie Ruth Youngblood, popular Magnolia A. and M. college co-ed, near here on March 25. The verdict was brought in at 5:05 p. m.

Before the jury returned Judge L. S. Britt warned the 1,000 persons who had jammed into the courtroom that there must be no demonstration.

When the foreman read the verdict applause began in the rear of the courtroom and murmurs of approval were heard. Judge Britt pounded the bench and the slight demonstration subsided. The crowd gathered around Eddington, whose expression did not change as the verdict was read.

Eddington said to newspapermen: "I knew it was a lot of hokey all the time."

After the verdict had been read, Judge Britt kept the crowd standing a moment while he denounced Northern and Eastern newspapers for publishing "the most diabolical and untruthful things I ever saw in print."

He referred to an article published in the New York Journal under an International News Service date line that "armed guards are patrolling the county jail grounds to protect Irving Eddington from the fury of an indignant public."

Nine witnesses were heard Thursday morning before the defense rested its case. The defense was a distinct victory when Dr. J. B. Wharton testified that Eddington was an "imbecile" and had the mind of a nine-year-old child. Dr. Wharton said that Eddington would admit anything if asked, and said that he had noticed Eddington was "badly excited" when police were questioning him at the city hall.

Dr. Wharton was present for a few minutes during the grilling.

The defense scored again when Judge Britt sustained Defense Attorney Stein's objection to testimony of Dr. R. E. Rowland, presented as a rebuttal witness by the state. Dr. Rowland qualified as an alienist but Stein objected because he said the examination of Eddington by Dr. Rowland was without the consent of the defense, and that Dr. Rowland refused to discuss his findings with defense attorneys.

Efforts of defense attorneys to establish an alibi for Eddington failed when the key witness, Gleyver Jones, Rock Island brakeman, could not identify Eddington as having been on a freight train between Winnfield, La., and El Dorado on the night of the young girl's death.

Eddington sat alone in the courtroom, apparently unable to decide what to do, until a deputy sheriff ordered him into a nearby witness room to avoid the crowds. In the witness room, Eddington made his first statement when not in the presence of police. He said that he lived in Little Rock with his brother, Roy Eddington, a carpenter, and his brother, in 1925. He said he lived in Hot Springs several years. "I'm going up in Illinois and look for work," he told newspapermen. He was kept in the county jail Thursday night and released Friday.

Saturday Last Day For Paying Taxes

Extension of the Time for Payment Expected From Governor

Saturday is the last day for the payment of taxes for 1931 without penalty, and is also the last day for assessing property for next year's taxes without penalty. There are many tracts of land and much personal property on which hie taxes have not yet been paid, and there are also a number of persons who have not yet assessed.

An extension of the time for paying taxes is expected from the governor, in which event the penalty will not attach until a later date. An extension has become customary in the state, and it is believed that it will be granted by the governor this year.

However, there will be no extension of time probable in the assessing of taxes without penalty, and every person who is liable for taxation should take advantage of the time yet left and assess.

Government Loan Limit Unchanged

Secretary of Agriculture Not to Accede to Urging of Planters

HOT SPRINGS—Park superintendents in session here Thursday were faced with a unique problem, that of trying to decide what to do with the surplus of buffalo now overflowing the national parks. Several years ago the government started a campaign to preserve the fast vanishing bison with such success that park superintendents now are urging zoos to come to their aid and take the surplus off their hands.

It was announced that "slickers" have been selling articles in the parks which they alleged to have been made by Indians, or trappers or guides. In order to encourage the Indian curio dealers and to obtain the genuine articles, it was announced that only genuine Indian articles will be sold in the future and they must bear an official government tag.

The delegates received another jolt Thursday when they learned that $30,000 will be deducted from the first prevention program. National parks last year had $120,000 for that purpose. They still anticipate the expenditure of $50,000 for insect control and tree diseases.

Admits Destroying Letters For Money

Nathan Newsome of Texarkana Operated on L. and A. Railroad

SHREVEPORT, La.—(AP)—Nathan Newsome, 34, Texarkana, was arrested by federal officers late Thursday when the train he was employed on as alternate mail clerk, arrived at central station, and less than an hour later confessed, officers said, to embezzling, rifling and destroying a letter addressed to a Shreveport party. The letter had contained $10.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner T. Overton Brooks, Newsome admitted destroying 25 or 40 letters containing money in recent months and rifling many others in search of money. He was irregularly employed on a post office car of the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad, operating between Alexandria, La., and Hope, Ark.

In lieu of $1000 bond, Newsome was transferred to the Caddo parish jail to await trial at the June term of federal court here.

The exact amount of money embezzled by Newsome could not be ascertained, said federal officers.

Newsome had been in the employ of the railway mail service for the past four years as a substitute clerk, according to R. E. Martin, chief clerk of the Texarkana offices. He was sent to Shreveport about a week ago for duty on a run between that city and New Orleans while the regular clerk took a brief vacation.

Martin was informed of his arrest by telegram Thursday from two post office inspectors, who advised him to send another man to take Newsome's place. He according sent another substitute clerk named Osborne, from Ida, La.

Newsome is said to have a wife and three children in Texarkana, one of the children being little more than a month old. His address in Texarkana is 1105 Olive street.

Three Accused of Arkansas Robbery

One Alleged to Have Confessed Looting Bank at Bradley

HOMER, La.—(AP)—J. A. Crenshaw, 34, alias James M. Brown, arrested in Dallas, Tex., as a suspect in the Haynesville bank robbery and brought here Thursday confessed, Sheriff J. F. Kinder said, that he and two other men, also under arrest, were the three bandits who robbed the Bank of Bradley, Ark., of between $2,000 and $3,000 Tuesday of last week.

He denied connection with the Haynesville robbery.

Crenshaw is said to have told officers that he, Lonnie Parker, 23, of Fouke, Ark., and Burl Poston of Caddo parish, robbed the Bradley bank. He said that approximately $500 taken from him by officers when he was arrested in Dallas was part of his $625 share of the loot. He said the automobile which was used in the robbery was stolen at Louisville, Ark.

Poston, who operated a filling station on the Ida-Houston highway, was arrested the day of the robbery near Plaquemine, La., and has been held since in the Bossier parish jail at Benton.

Young Parker was arrested the following day when officers surprised him while he was asleep in a barn on his father's farm.

Identified in Bradley
BRADLEY—J. C. Crenshaw, arrested at Dallas, Tex., Thursday as a suspect in the robbery of the Bank of Bradley, March 30, and held at Homer, La., as a suspect in the robbery of Haynesville (La.) bank was identified by Mrs. J. W. Meeks and Jack Meeks of Bradley as one of the men who held up the local institution.

Officers at Haynesville told Sheriff R. I. Duty of Lafayette county that Crenshaw confessed.

J. C. Crenshaw, alias James A. Kennedy, was convicted of burglary and grand larceny in Grant county and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, August 20, 1929. He was granted a 60-day furlough November 20, 1930, and a 30-day extension was granted January 9, 1931. The furlough was recalled by penitentiary officials February 24, 1931, and since then he has been classified as an escaped prisoner.

Saturday Noon Set As Close of Special Legislative Session

Kaufman Proposal to Let Regular Session Pass Refunding Bill Carries

AMEND TURNBACK

Interest Rate on Bonds Still an Issue for Controversy

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The senate late Friday passed, 30 yeas, the conference bill on debt refunding.

There was no debate, and observers believe that the difficult task of bond refunding is near completion.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The House of Representatives voted 73 to 4 on a concurrent resolution Friday by Kaufman of Sebastian, providing for the adjournment of the legislature at noon Saturday.

The resolution said that it appeared that no agreement could be reached between the senate and house on the bond refunding question, and proposed that it be left to the next regular session.

Park Hill Bill Killed
LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Hope for speedy passage of the bond refunding bill was measurably brightened Friday by the actions of the house and senate in receding from their previous stands on controversial issues.

The house after a wild session voted 47 to 44 to defeat the so-called park hill amendment, which the senate had constantly opposed.

The senate in turn receded from their previous stand and adopted an amendment, striking out of the refunding bill the controversial provisions, leaving the bill intact for appropriation next session.

One controversial issue remains, that is whether to make the interest rate of the refunding bonds 5 instead of 4 1/2 per cent.

Wilkerson Denies Capone Mistreated

Guilty Plea and Prosecutor's Recommendation Not Overruled, He Says

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The story of Al Capone's conviction was told to a Senate committee Thursday by Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced him to 11 years in the penitentiary for violation of the income tax law.

Wilkerson said he allowed the gangster's plea of guilty to be withdrawn because Capone's lawyer contended that under them the court was bound to limit the sentence to two and one-half years.

The Chicago judge explained in a letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee which is considering his nomination to the Circuit Court.

Wilkerson said he had given District Attorney Johnson permission to recommend a two and one-half years sentence "subject to such action as would be taken after a hearing of the facts in open court."

"When the cases were called for hearing," he said, "there was a sharp disagreement between the attorneys for the government and those for the defense as to the conditions under which the pleas were entered."

"The attorneys for the government were ready to proceed with a presentation of the facts, as is usual when the court is imposing sentences either with or without a recommendation from the prosecutor."

"The attorneys for the defendant claimed to have an agreement with the government that their pleas were not to stand unless the recommendation was unqualifiedly followed by the court, that evidence was not to be heard by the court and that the defendant was not to be questioned by the court."

"The attorneys for the government denied that they had made such an agreement. After some discussion, the court, exercising its discretion in defendant's favor, allowed the pleas to be withdrawn."

Wilkerson denied that he had rejected the pleas of guilty or disregarded the government's recommendation.

An Ugly Picture

RECENT testimony before the Senate committee regarding Al Capone's experiences with the law in Chicago makes dismal reading. It confirms all that has been said about the power of gangland, and it leaves the forces of law and order with very few laurels.

It's an old story, to be sure. But it is a story that needs to be told and retold, for it explains a great deal about the state of politics and government in the United States today.

First of all, we get the picture of the archcriminal, the "master of the underworld," moving in sober fact through a realm that would have been thought too fantastic even for fiction a few years ago.

We are shown how criminal activities of every kind were integrated; how the nation's second city paid millions upon millions of dollars in tribute annually to the country's most notorious crook; how the power of the man was so great that witnesses feared to testify against him and policemen hesitated to move against him.

Then we get the climax. The great criminal, at last is laid by the heels. And why? To answer for any one of the innumerable high crimes committed by his agents? Not at all. Simply because he had failed to pay taxes on the enormous profits his illegal activities had rolled up.

Then, as if this were not farce-comedy enough, comes the revelation that the prosecutor and judge who were to try him agreed to let him down with a comparatively short sentence if he would plead guilty. This deal fell through because, as the prosecutor complained Capone, with "unbelievable arrogance" made public the terms of the deal.

The "unbelievable arrogance," of course, really consisted in making the deal in the first place. When he talked about it, Capone was not being arrogant; he was simply being indiscreet.

The whole picture is not pretty, but we need to keep looking at it. It is perhaps the most significant story that the republic has produced in the past decade.

Clowns in Russia

A CAMPAIGN was begun in Moscow the other day to abolish clowns in all circuses which give performances within the Soviet union. Clown performances, it is explained, are incompatible with proletarian principles and do very little to advance the five-year plan or build up a strong Communist regime. Hence they must be cut out of the picture.

This, of course, is just another of those things that make one wonder what has happened to the Russian's sense of humor—if he ever had one. But it serves, also, as a reminder that some of the most pleasant things in life are absolutely and unashamedly useless.

Circus clowns don't advance the cause of Communism? Well, they don't advance the cause of capitalism, either. They don't advance the cause of anything—which is why we like them. And a society that has no use for anything useless must be an uncomfortable sort of place to live in.

A Refreshing Comment

AN exceedingly interesting comment on the way in which those eastern college students were checked by local authorities when they tried to enter Bell and Harlan counties, in Kentucky, recently, was furnished the other day by H. R. Gilles, city commissioner and prominent merchant of Middlesboro, Ky.

Declaring that County Attorney Walter B. Smith had a regular army of deputies out to stop the students, Mr. Gilles remarked:

"If that gathering of around 2000 hecklers and ruffians from three counties—including many of the worst characters, who had been deputized, filled with liquor and armed to the teeth—constituted law and order and Kentucky bravery and chivalry, then I don't know what rank cowardice and lawlessness is."

It is encouraging to find that there is at least one prominent resident of the Kentucky mine war area who is willing to speak out against the un-American practices of the officials there.

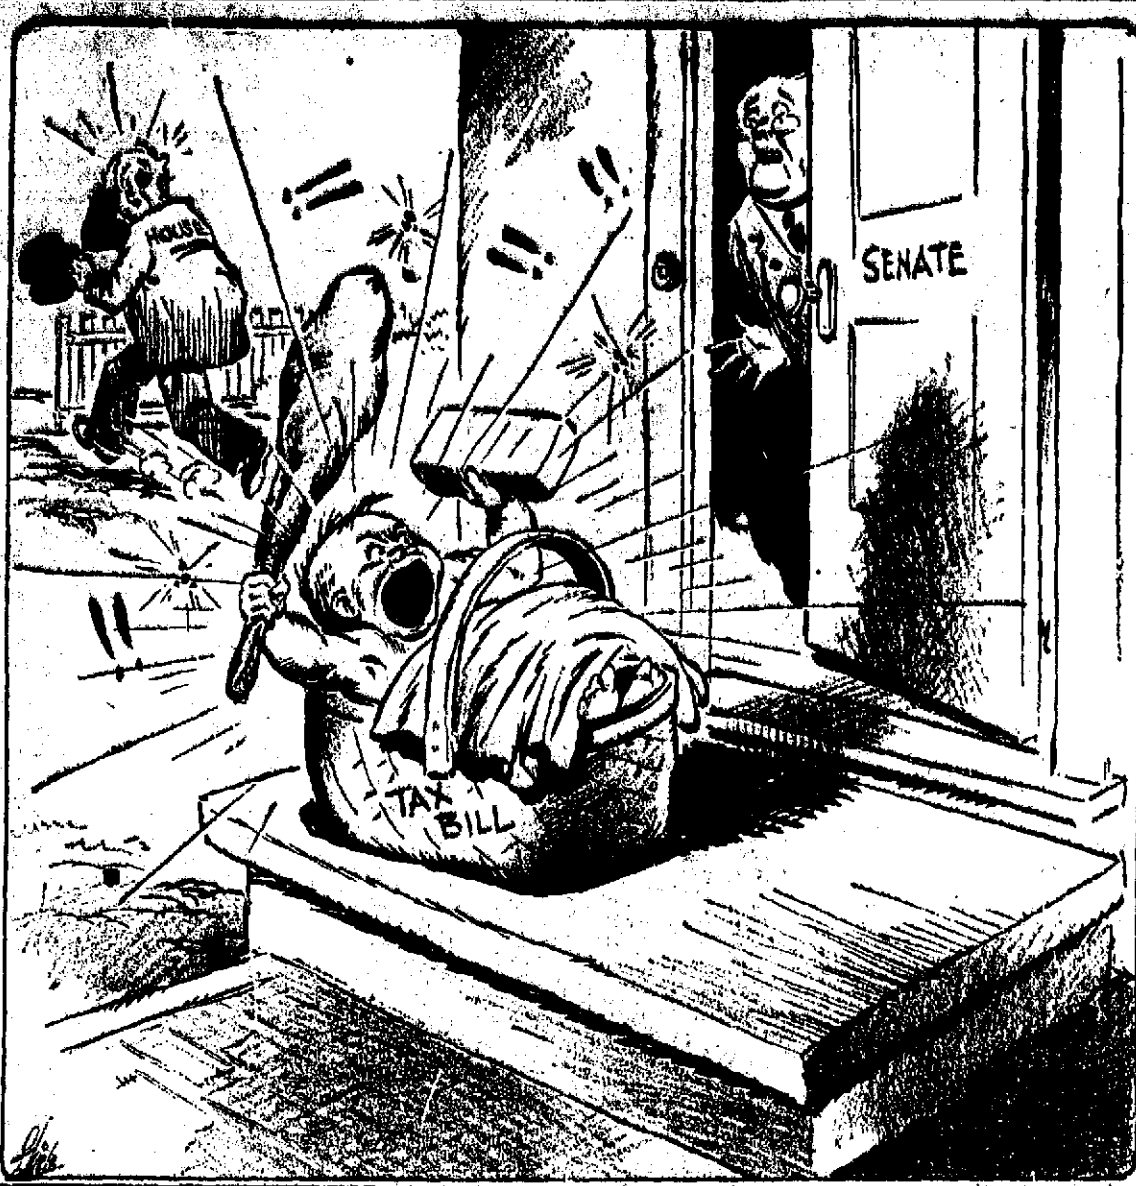

Air Conditioning

THE progress that industrial engineers are making in air conditioning devices makes it apparent that this new field of activity will become more and more important during the coming decade.

The Chesapeake & Ohio railroad the other day announced inauguration of a new fast passenger train, the George Washington, on which every coach and Pullman will be fitted with an elaborate air conditioning apparatus. Even temperatures will be maintained constantly, dust will be eliminated, and the passengers will be kept comfortably warm in winter and comfortably cool in summer.

That such devices will become common equipment on all crack passenger trains before long seems probable. That they will, in addition, come into general use in homes and apartments is also probable.

When it rains it pours

A rainy day view of Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., with the dome of the nation's capitol looming up in the background.

From Washington to San Francisco, and from Canada to the Gulf, Morton's Iodized Salt is everywhere the leader. Small wonder, too, for it's the only salt that never cakes or hardens. Made with cube-shaped crystals, which tumble off one another instead of sticking together like the flake crystals of inferior salts, it pours just as freely in damp weather as in dry! This national favorite also protects children against simple goiter, with its loss of appetite, lack of vigor, irritability and backwardness at school.

Thus happiness, in each sure part Lies within reach of every heart. —Selected.

In the dining room the patriotic motif was stressed in the decorations, the beauty table, being covered with a handsome imported lace cloth over blue satin, was centered with a silver basket of exquisite red roses with tapers in silver holders gleaming softly around the flowers. Auntie Blossom's Column

A Column Dedicated to the Children of Hope and Members of Senger Kiddies Club

Dear Children: For our program Saturday we have obtained two very exciting and thrilling pictures, they are "Oklahoma Jim," starring Bill Cody, and "Charlie Chan's Chance," starring Warner Oland. The first picture is a fast action western and the other picture is a thrilling detective story. You know Warner Oland generally takes the part of the bad man in a picture but in "Charlie Chan's Chance" he is the good man, playing the part of a detective who solved a mystery after the police have quit trying. It is packed with laughs and thrills from the start to the finish and every boy and girl will enjoy it I know.

In addition to the pictures we are going to have vaudeville and games, songs and fun. There will be a cartoon and everything. Last time everyone enjoyed the flour-eating contest in which three boys had to put their faces into a dish of flour and get a rickie that was hidden at the bottom of the dish. Of course their hands were tied behind them and you can bet your boots they looked like a snowman when they finished. Well, this Saturday we have just as funny a contest planned and I don't want any of you to miss it. So be sure to be on time as we start promptly at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. So long till then. Legion Supports Anti-Bonus Fight

White House Reveals Veterans Pledged to Back Hoover Stand

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A pledge of American Legion support for President Hoover in his fight against the enactment of additional soldiers' bonus legislation was announced late Tuesday at the White House.

One of the president's secretaries told newspapermen word had been received from Henry L. Stevens, national commander, that "the Legion stands solidly behind him on the bonus fight." This statement was not amplified nor was the text of Stevens' communication made public.

The chief executive recently declared himself "absolutely opposed" to any new bonus bill, implying he would veto any such legislation passed before him. Aroused by word that informal polls in the House of Representatives showed all but 90 members at that time favored such legislation he issued a statement asserting it would wreck the hopes of securing a balanced budget.

Moves have gone forward steadily on Capitol Hill to consider a bonus measure estimated to disburse approximately $2,400,000 to veterans. Congressional hearings will begin Monday.

In his recent statement Mr. Hoover said that since his anti-bonus address before the American Legion convention in Detroit, the Legion had "consistently supported that position." He added:

"The first duty of every citizen of the United States is to build up and sustain the credit of the United States government. Such an action would irretrievably undermine it."

Requirements For Good Corn Yield

Plenty of Moisture and Good Nitrogen Supply Necessary

There are two outstanding requirements for a good corn yield; namely, a good supply of water and a good supply of nitrogen. Usually it is said a fertile soil is needed for corn. However, what is meant is a soil that will hold moisture well and is well supplied with nitrogen.

Both of these requirements are met when corn follows a legume crop, especially when the legume crop has been plowed under, states D. J. Burleson, Extension agronomist, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. By plowing under a legume crop a supply of organic matter is added which increases the water-holding power of the soil and also adds nitrogen to the soil which was taken from the air by the legumes. The supply of organic matter in the soil acts as a reservoir for water and thus enables the crop to stand a drought.

If rain comes exactly right, most soils will produce a good corn crop where nitrogen is added in commercial fertilizer. A hundred pounds of sulphate of ammonia or nitrate of soda applied to the corn when knee high will increase the yield of corn 8 to 10 bushels per acre when the season is favorable. Tests conducted by the Experiment Station, of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, show that when soybeans or cowpeas are plowed under they increase the yield of corn on good land about 20 bushels per acre.

Prevention of Sore Shoulders Is Urged

Special Attention Should Be Given to Animals in Spring

Correct fitting of the collar, and adjustments of the harness, is a big step in the elimination of sore shoulders, states M. W. Muldrow, Extension animal husbandman, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. A good heavy leather collar is best, and to fit there should be barely room for the flat hand to pass barely between the collar and the windpipe, and for the finger tips to pass at the side of the neck just above the shoulder points. The shoulders of work animals should be given special attention during the spring fitting season until the muscles harden and the winter hair sheds. They should be cleaned carefully after the day's work is done by washing with warm water and castile soap and then rinsed with cold water to which a small amount of salt has been added. This treatment may be discontinued after a few weeks, but careful daily brushing of the shoulders before harnessing and the cleaning of the collar are always required.

A little time given in special attention to the shoulders in the field during the early spring is time well used. The collar should be raised and the sweat, dirt, and dead hair removed from both shoulders and collar. It is especially important that the neck and shoulders be cleaned and given a chance to dry and cool off during the noon hour.

Man in Prison for 35 Years Sets It Afire

JOLIET, Ill.—(AP)—An old and trusted convict "tired of being shut up" and reverting to a pyromaniacal urge Tuesday set fire to the stone chapel in the state penitentiary.

Joliet fire companies and 300 convicts put out the blaze which resulted in damage estimated at $5000.

Lyman Hall, a convict since 1897 and a trustee most of the time since 1910, walked into the deputy warden's office in the old prison Tuesday morning and calmly announced:

"I'm tired of the world, I'm tired of being shut up. I just set fire to the chapel and I hope the whole place burns up."

It was a half hour before the fire department and a detail of prisoners had the blaze under control. There was no disorder.

Hall was sentenced from Will county in 1897 for the murder of Constable Francis DeLong. He had been suspected previously as a "firebug."

He was placed in solitary confinement.

Al Capone is weary of prison life already, a news item says. Maybe he's just learning that the hardest thing to kill is time.

Both were wounded in a gun battle that frustrated the attempt to loot the club's gambling room.

A. Y. Yarbrough, formerly of Tulsa, land, Fla., the leader of the gang, was killed and T. Phillip Perkins, British golfer and a guest of the club, was wounded. Another of the bandits was wounded but he escaped with two companions.

THE MAN HUNTERS
 CHAPTER IX
 Susan came out of Ernest Heath's office shaken but serene. The dreaded interview was over and with it had gone her sense of wrathful shame. Jack Waring had apologized manfully, and taken the entire blame for the awkward scene.

Mr. Heath had said to Susan: "Waring has explained he was carrying you and has promised it won't happen again."

He had directed a cold, angry glance at the younger man, Waring, who had been enjoying the playing of this particular role, had made a slight little gesture of defeat and accepted his dismissal with a somewhat bowed head.

"That's all, Miss Carey," Heath had concluded. "And now will you take a letter, please?" It had been as simple as that!

Nothing, Susan felt, would surprise her after the events of this altogether surprising day. Over and over again on the way home in a street car teeming with humanity she rehearsed the little scene. She could not help admitting that Waring had behaved rather well. But of course it had been his own fault, she assured herself.

Her cheeks burned at the memory.

"What did you say, Aunt Jessie?" Susan asked absently as she accepted from her aunt's gnarled hand the plate heaped with potato salad and cold ham.

"Her aunt snarped, 'I said that young fellow called twice tonight just before you got into the house and said he'd be out around eight.'"

"What young fellow?" Susan asked, startled out of her daze.

"Primly Aunt Jessie replied, 'Mr. Lampman, of course.'"

"Susan stared. 'And you said— you told him it would be all right?'"

Aunt Jessie smiled. "I did," she said, calmly.

Susan could scarcely believe her ears. The idea of Aunt Jessie sponsoring a young man was too preposterous. "I wish you hadn't," she demurred. "I'm tired and took a wreck and besides he bores me to tears."

"He is a very nice young man," Aunt Jessie said levelly. "I think the least you can do is show your manners when he takes such an interest."

Susan's curiosity was piqued. "How do you know he's nice?" she asked.

Aunt Jessie tossed her head. "I forgot to tell you he came over the other night when you were at Rose's and we had a real nice visit. I declare, I don't know when I've met such a steady-going, sensible boy."

Susan bathed and got into fresh clothing.

Susan lowered her lids to conceal the imp of mischief dancing in her eyes. She was annoyed, none the less. Wasn't it just like Aunt Jessie, she thought, to sponsor Ben?

Warily she dried cups and plates and knives and spoons. In silence she dawdled to her room. She hated the thought of entertaining the moody young man Aunt Jessie had chosen for her to smile upon!

She could not, this once, fathom her aunt's motives. Usually Aunt Jessie slurred the bare notion of a suitor for Susan.

The girl strained back her curls, creamed and splashed and rinsed her face. She bathed and got into fresh clothing. In spite of herself and her almost sullen determination not to feel better, Susan's spirits began imperceptibly to rise.

She felt a sense of elation as she surveyed herself in the spotted, ancient glass of the oak dresser in her room. A fitful breeze, tiny and yet undeniably a breeze, swung her window curtains. It was good to be alive, to be cool and rested after the dreadful day, she decided.

Her mood changed. Why shouldn't she, after all, be nice to Ben Lampman? Ray Flannery took every masculine sigh and glance as tribute. Probably Ray was right. Susan had noticed before this that the elusive attribute, charm, usually surrounded those lucky girls who were said by their mates to be "popular."

Popular! That terrific and overwhelming word on which the destinies of the young so often hung. Susan wanted to be popular, didn't she?

Well, then, why not begin by taking as a gift of the gods the admiration of Ben Lampman? Life was so strange, Susan reflected, as she set the wave in her hair with abstracted but skilful fingers.

Six months before she would have crowned with delight the notion of Aunt Jessie's allowing her to have a masculine caller. Well, she would look the gift horse in the face no longer! She would smile and be pleasant and listen to Ben Lampman's moody conversation. She, too, would be charming!

Promptly at eight the young man arrived, almost pathetically neat in his brushed blue serge. Ben was the long-looked type of youth who honestly believes temperament and untidiness go hand in hand—but he was the very pattern of neatness this evening.

"Hello!" he said, surrendring his shabby hat. Susan moved over on the porch swing and Aunt Jessie smiled as benevolently as possible.

Ben did not sit down.

"I thought maybe I wondered if you'd like to go over to see some friends of mine on the north side," he fumbled. "They're very artistic. They're nice and you'd like them. Having a little sort of party in their studio."

Susan could almost see Aunt Jessie's hair rise at the word. Aunt Jessie with her puritanical visions of undraped models and painters in velvet smocks inquired stiffly, "What kind of folks are they? I'm not sure I want Susan to go."

Ben began volubly to explain. They were all right he said. The Strinskys, Arnold Strinsky made leather screens and doodads. A sort of Venetian work. His wife did magazine illustrations.

"Pollocks?" Aunt Jessie inquired suspiciously. Ben said very solemnly "No." Arnold was a Russian and so was his wife, Sonya. Susan liked the sound of that name. It made her think of a camellia-white face beneath a head of seal-black hair.

Aunt Jessie looked as if she thought Russians little better than the "Pollocks" she disliked so much, but after a moment or two of consideration she grudgingly consented. "If you'll have Susan home by half past 10," she stipulated.

THIS house in which the Strinskys lived was an old brownstone on the north side not far from Lincoln Park. Ben, who had been in New York, told Susan the place was just like Greenwich Village, and Susan believed him. She was a little awed at her good fortune in being introduced to such a charming circle.

The main room of the Strinsky flat was a shock to her at first. The walls were painted with splashes of red and orange. There was a black corduroy couch in one corner and a samovar on a kitchen table that had been painted blue. About the room on soiled cushions and on a few crude chairs were scattered the guests. Sonya Strinsky, who was a pale, oily-haired girl wearing a lavender smock, admitted them.

She had long, tired, hazel eyes and her hand was limp. She did not in the least resemble Susan's notion of a Russian princess. The hall smelt of cabbage and there was a drift of smoke in the room through which Susan could just perceive the white blur of faces. A rabble of voices rose. The place seemed intolerably hot. Sonya said to Ben, "You're just in time. They want to dance and you're to play for them."

The young man protested but was dragged to the battered piano in the corner and Susan left to fend for herself.

Susan's head began to ache and she wished she had not come. She began to suspect that perhaps she was not really seeing life, after all. A fat man, informally attired in polo shirt and white slacks, approached and asked her to dance. She did not even know his name.

Sonya brought in a tin tray with drinks. Susan frowned over hers and left it untasted. She heard Ben's low voice, "You don't have to drink if you don't want to."

She turned to him gratefully. He was looking anxious. No doubt Aunt Jessie had impressed him with her views. "I wouldn't dare," she breathed. She looked around her. The girl who was called Denise, the flower-faced one with the strange, red hair, was gesticulating with her cigarette and squinting through the little column of smoke.

It struck Susan for the first time that Denise was rather out of place in this shabby company. Her frock was exquisite, her shoes narrow and delicate and fine. The bracelet on her narrow wrist looked real and sparkling in the dim light.

Ben glanced carelessly across the room. "Oh, her!" he said casually. "She's a society girl from Winnetka or some place. Sonya picked her up at a club. Guess she thinks she's slumming."

Susan gave Denise an envious glance. What strange tastes some people had, the girl reflected. This stranger who might be sipping iced tea on some veranda high above the lake chose to spend a sultry summer evening in the broiling heart of the city in a stuffy room.

The red-haired girl glanced across at Susan as though her thoughts for an instant met and clashed. Denise's strangely compelling eyes, set like aquamarines under penciled brows, met Susan's with a look almost proudly disdainful.

Susan felt a flash of precedence. She shivered a little. Somehow she knew that Denise would cross her path again.

Heralds of Spring

Spring's first flowers are blooming. The last cold snap has disappeared and, with the coming of April showers, May flowers are getting an early start in the woods.

Home gardeners have long attempted to transplant woods and field flowers in their backyard plots, but have been more disappointed than successful. The main reason is that wild flowers, tender natives of wild places, must have as near their original surroundings as possible to succeed.

In transplanting them, dig up a good section of earth along with the plants. Carry this earth with the plant, taking care not to loosen it, to the spot you want to set it in your yard.

Leaf mould should be spread thoroughly around the plant, and the ground should be kept well moist at all times. If the plant was found in a shady spot in the woods, try to set it in shade at home.

Some of the early spring flowers which may be found growing in the woods near your home are: violets, crocuses, Dutchman's breeches, blood-root, anemones, daffodils and some wild geraniums.

Scout Meeting To Be Held in April

Five States to Join in Conference—Week-End in Camp

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—The Dixie regional conference of Girl Scouts, with representatives and leaders from five states in attendance, will be held here April 18 and 19.

Delegates from Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas are completing plans to attend the conference, Mrs. Mahon D. Ogden, regional conference chairman, said.

The regional chairman, Mrs. E. T. Newell, of Chattanooga, will preside. Other leaders expected at the conference are Mrs. W. E. Hays of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Paul Mertins, of Montgomery, Ala., national representatives of the southern region; Miss Fanning Dixon, of the national field staff; Miss Grace McKittrick, of the national training staff, and Miss Ray Mitchell, of the national camp advisory staff.

The regional officers include Mrs. West Womack, Jackson, Miss, regional vice chairman; Mrs. A. C. Sanford, Montgomery, Ala., secretary.

Board members are Mrs. Harry P. Davis, Knoxville; Mrs. George Fort Miller, Jr., Chattanooga; Mrs. Louise McKendle, Birmingham; Mrs. Ellwyn Bedford, Coal Valley, Ala.; Mrs. James McFarlane, Aberdeen, Miss.; Mrs. Alvin Harris, Johnson City, Tenn.; Mrs. H. C. Ehrenfels, New Orleans; Mrs. W. E. Morgan, Nashville, and Mrs. M. B. Rous and Mrs. John G. Pipkin of Little Rock.

The program will include discussions of organization, extension scouting, publicity and the regional built-up training, leadership, equipment, and community service.

After the close of the conference session, the scout officials and leaders will leave for Camp Quapaw, for a week-end of camping from April 23 to May 1.

Huge Overseas Airship

WASHINGTON.—Airships 1,000,000 cubic feet larger than the dirigible "Akron" will compose a fleet making semi-weekly trips from the United States to Europe and the Orient within four years, according to J. C. Hunsaker, vice president of the Goodyear Corporation. He reports that the "Akron" line is feasible for, from figures gathered, it has been found that more than 25,000 persons in the United States are willing to spend $750 a year in making an ocean trip in half the time required by ship.

Quachita Facing Loss of Colorful Athletic Figure

ARKADELPHIA.—Quachita College is about to lose one of the most promising football players that has come to the school in years. Babe Bennings has withdrawn temporarily at least. He is trying out with the Fort Smith team of the Western Association and if he makes it and plays this summer he will be lost to amateur athletics. Bennings, who has made good here both in football and in his school work, left with reluctance. He was popular on the campus and in the city. College sport in Arkansas stands to lose one of its most colorful players.

Race Mixture to Try Massie Case

Darrow Finds Islanders Elusive as Jury Selection Drags Along

HONOLULU.—A jury about equally divided between whites and Chinese with a few other races thrown in, making a typical Hawaiian Island mixture, was indicated by developments in the Fortescue-Massie murder trial Wednesday.

This is nothing to cause comment here, but it is a unique experience for the mainland lawyers who are defending Mrs. Granville B. Fortescue and Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and two enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, for the killing on January 8 of Joseph Kahahawai, one of the defendants charged with assaulting Mrs. Thalia Massie, the naval officer's wife.

Mrs. Fortescue seldom raised her eyes to the jury box as brown, black and white, were called for examination for the right to sit in judgment on her liberty.

With supreme disregard of the staring groups in the corridor, she held a conference with Clarence Darrow of Chicago, leading the defense, at a table in the open foyer of the courthouse just before the opening of court.

The progress was marked Wednesday the exercise of five more peremptory challenges by each side, leaving 16 each still available to the defense and prosecution.

At this rate the jury should be completed this week. Kelley threw out three white citizens, one Portuguese and a Japanese, Wednesday, while the defense got rid of three Chinese, one white and one of the islands and one Chinese-Hawaiian.

The aged clerk was putting around the drug store counter when a young lady entered.

"Have you any Life Buoy?" she asked.

The old fellow looked up with a sparkle in his eye.

"Feh, heh," he cackled. "You just wait till I get this here counter dusted off an' I'll show ye."

Women Vote Wet On Straw Ballot

31 1/2 Per Cent Against 18th Amendment at Portland, Me.

Thirty-two states representing a combined population of over 85,000,000 are voting from two to one to six to one wet as more than 4,000,000 ballots are tabulated in this week's returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide Prohibition Poll according to figures published in the magazine Saturday.

Nine states with a total population of over 19,000,000 register a dry sentiment of 40 per cent or more. Of these states Kansas alone gives a definite majority for continuance of the Prohibition Amendment, while North Carolina is almost dry.

The wettest section of the United States as evidenced by the poll figures extends from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic ocean above the Mason-Dixon line, with the dampest concentration in the group of states of New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

The driest sector is the belt of twelve states extending from Texas and Oklahoma to the Atlantic ocean including Kentucky and Virginia and excepting Florida.

The Pacific Coast states are voting slightly over three to one wet, about the same as those states in the upper Mississippi valley.

The Rocky Mountain section registers approximately three to two sentiment for repeal.

A total of 4,009,499 ballots are tallied this week of which 1,046,113, or 26.09 per cent, vote for continuance of Prohibition and 2,963,386, or 73.91 per cent, are for repeal.

The dry vote shows a seventh consecutive gain during the poll rising from 15.85 per cent of the total vote of the first week's returns.

Nevada continues to lead the Anti-Prohibition column increasing its wet vote again this week to 87.73 per cent.

The District of Columbia is still voting over 3 to 1 wet.

As an answer to charges that the Poll does not represent the women of the nation, The Literary Digest published returns of a special referendum of all registered voters of Portland, Maine, which was selected, it is stated, because it was one of the oldest prohibition centers in the whole country.

The canvass was so arranged, announcement is made, that the ballots returned by women voters could be distinguished from those returned by men voters and still remain secret ballots.

14,598 ballots were mailed to men and 11,558 ballots were mailed to women, the total of which constituted the entire registered electorate of the city.

Of 3,981 replies returned by men 970 or 24.36 per cent, voted dry and 3,011 or 75.64 per cent, voted wet.

Of the 11,558 ballots mailed to the women 1,126, or 38.45 per cent, voted for continuance of the prohibition amendment and 1,802, or 61.55 per cent, voted for repeal.

Not including the Portland votes, the state of Maine balloted 7,826 for continuance and 17,863, or 69.54 per cent for repeal.

With the votes from Portland included, the state of Maine shows 9,922 dry votes and 22,516, or 69.57 per cent, wet votes.

The Literary Digest points out that in this comparison of where the exact number of women voting is known, the returns for the State of Maine show a percentage of 69.54 for repeal and the city of Portland shows a percentage of 69.67 for repeal.

Agricultural Experts Will Visit Nashville

TEXARKANA.—Three agricultural agents of the Missouri Pacific railroad stopped in Texarkana Wednesday while en route to Nashville, Ark., to conduct a campaign to persuade farmers to plant new truck crops to replace the losses incurred by the recent freeze in that region.

John P. Stinson, director of agricultural development; Glen Wallace, farm marketing agent, both of St. Louis; and E. A. Hodson, agricultural agent of Little Rock, have arranged a series of meetings with farmers through the co-operation of extension farm demonstration agents in that vicinity and will present a program that has been outlined by the agriculturalists.

The agents will propose that farmers plant cantaloupes, cucumbers, and strawberries as substitution crops for the peach harvest.

Judge Gets Riled

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Mrs. B. L. LaFollette had her husband arrested for cruelty. When his trial came up she refused to testify. "The next time let her husband beat her to death," the judge said, disgustedly. "Don't you ever come back to my court again and seek protection," he told her.

RUPTURE Shield Expert Here

H. M. SHEVNAV, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Grimm Hotel, Texarkana, Tuesday and Wednesday only, April 12 and 13 from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Mr. Shevnav says: The Zoetie Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increases the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnav will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired.

Add: 6605 N. Tilman Ave., Chicago. For 15 years assistant to F. H. Seeley, famous rupture expert of Chicago.

Poverty Town's Happy "Mayor"

Several Los Angeles families, ousted from their homes, banded together several months ago and moved into shacks they built on vacant land near the outskirts of the city. Now the colony, named "Hoover Town," has a population of over 700 persons and E. A. Hanna, shown above, is recognized as "mayor." Everybody's happy in Hoover Town, inasmuch as rent is free and welfare organizations feed the entire community.

Fiddles While Other Inmates Dig From Jail

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex.—(AP)—While John Merriman fiddled, four companions in the Wallace county jail dug their way through the walls of the jail Wednesday. The five prisoners escaped on a ladder made from blankets in the cell they occupied.

Those escaping were Ed and Virgil Dillon, Paul Howell, W. E. Poin and Merriman. Poin surrendered to officers shortly after the break. Investigation revealed the prisoners had dug a hole 16 inches square in the wall of a cell on the third floor of the jail. Merriman played his violin to deaden the sound of the falling bricks, officials reported.

DeQueen Council Cuts Licenses for Theaters

DEQUEEN, Ark.—Reduction of the theater license from $60 to $30 a year has been authorized in an ordinance passed by the city council. This action was taken, after hearing the petition of H. T. Head, manager of the Grand theater here, when asked that the fee be reduced in accordance with the reduction of other prices and a decrease in theater attendance.

Ways and means of coping with the vagrancy problem were discussed by members of the council but no definite action was taken. Housewives have been approached by as many as 10 or more vagrants within a few hours, it was reported.

Jack Hall, Texas Slayer, to Get New Hearing

AUSTIN.—(AP)—Jack Hall, convicted in Crane county for the slaying of T. O. Barnsley and given 30 years imprisonment, was granted a new trial by the court of criminal appeals Wednesday.

The 15-year conviction against Clarence Pryor, Wheeler county, charged with the slaying of Warren Guyton, Sr., was affirmed.

The court reversed and remanded a conviction against Kenneth Wilmer convicted in Bexar county of a swindling charge, and ordered the prosecution dismissed. The jury had assessed Wilmer's punishment at 10 years' confinement in the state penitentiary.

If you admire self-made men, what do you think of the man who, left without a father and mother at nine months of age, got his start by crawling to a baby show and winning the first prize of $1,000.

Lindbergh Renews Request For Baby

Intermediaries Ready to Leave Immediately for Return of Child

NORFOLK, Va.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, said Thursday that Colonel Lindbergh had renewed his request that all efforts be continued by the Norfolk negotiators to recover his kidnapped baby.

The spokesman said that the intermediaries were ready to leave, if necessary at any time on such a mission as John Hughes Curtis, who Wednesday brought back assurance that the baby was well and that he was in contact with the kidnappers.

Dr. Brough Here on Senatorial Campaign

Former Governor Charles Hillman Brough, candidate for the long term United States senatorship, passed through Hope Wednesday afternoon on route to Foreman, Little River county, where he was scheduled to address a Father and Sons banquet Wednesday night under the auspices of the Future Farmers of America. Dr. Brough, until recently a special lecturer of the University of Arkansas, said that he had contacted township leaders in 42 of the 75 counties of Arkansas, and that his outlook was bright for victory.

Hundreds Ask to Take Look at Tiny Baby

KANSAS CITY, (AP)—Garments from a doll's wardrobe were used Wednesday to clothe the tiny form of baby St. John, who weighed one pound at birth Monday night.

The doll clothes were presented to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William St. John, by a small girl who expressed the hope that "these might help."

Clothing provided by the parents for the event, proved much too large.

The little chap is kept in an improvised packing box crib, a temperature of 82 degrees being maintained by hot water bottles.

Warned by a physician that the infant needs rest, the parents had turned away hundreds of persons who wished to "take a peek at the baby."

Jefferson Graduates Dates Are Announced

State to Be Featured By Holland's Magazine

Arkansas and its attractions for tourists are to be featured by Holland's Magazine in the August issue, according to information received from the editor of the publication.

The story is one of a series of 13, each calling attention to one of the southern states and the things offered by the particular state as inducement to tourists to pay a visit. The stories are to run one each month until the series is completed. "The Lure of Southern Trails" is the general title of the series.

Points of interest, highways and other matters of interest to tourists feature the stories. A large number of illustrations are used with each story and the cover page of the magazine will carry a picture typical of the state featured in that issue.

Customer: "what's wrong with these eggs?"

Waitress: "Don't ask me, I only laid the table."

Employer: "Do you believe in love at first sight, Miss Vamp?"

Stenographer: "Well, I think it saves a lot of time."

The real trouble at Washington is that the government has been living beyond our incomes.
